Author guidelines

Manuscripts in English, German, French or Italian must be submitted as Word files via the szsa.ch / rsts.ch platform.

By submitting their manuscript, authors agree to the Agreement on the assignment of exploitation rights.

When writing an scientific article, the following points should be considered:
- Scientific articles are assessed by two independent experts in each case through a double-blind peer-review process
- They should be between 30,000 and 50,000 characters in length, including spaces and the bibliography, but without the title, abstract and keywords
- The following should be included in the manuscript:
  a) Title in the language of the article and in English.
  b) Abstract of no more than 600 characters in the language of the article and in English.
  c) Keywords in the language of the article and in English (maximum 5)
  d) Author details: First name and surname, affiliation, email address, ORCID.
- For the double-blind review, the manuscript must be submitted in two versions: a full version and an anonymised version, so that the authors cannot be identified.
- If you are revising your work, please respond to the reviewer's comments point by point in a separate reply file.

When writing a contribution for the positions and debates section, the following points should be considered:
- Contributions to the Positions and Debates section are subject to editorial review
- They must not exceed a maximum of 30,000 characters, including spaces and the bibliography, but without the title, abstract and keywords, and must include an abstract of no more than 600 characters in the language of the paper as well as in English

When writing a contribution for the reviews section, the following points should be considered:
- Reviews are subject to editorial review
- They must not exceed the maximum of 15,000 characters, including spaces and the bibliography, but without the title
- Any working, friendship or family relationships between the reviewer and the authors of the work to be reviewed must be disclosed to the editorial team.

For all contributions:
- The text must be written using gender-inclusive or gender-neutral language.
- The structure of the text should comprise a maximum of three levels in addition to the title of the article; the first two of these should be numbered

Title of the contribution
1. Introduction
1.1 Title
Title (not numbered)
2. ...

- Emphasis should be in italics, not bold.
- Citations should be placed in quotation marks and indented if they are more than five lines long

- The tables and figures must be attached to the manuscript as separate documents in Excel format and numbered consecutively. The place in the manuscript where they are to be inserted must be indicated.
- Notes should be used sparingly. They should be included in endnotes (not footnotes) and numbered consecutively using Arabic numerals.
- In an endnote, you should state the name of the project, who funded it, and who worked on it (including data collection, etc.) (acknowledgement)
- References
  For references in the text and in the bibliography, the journal uses the APA 7 style full names or no-initials. First names are written out in full in the bibliography.
  You can find the corresponding EndNote style (.ens) here.
  You can find the corresponding Zotero style (.csl) here.

  References in the text should include the authors' surnames, the year of publication and the page number. Where there are two authors, their names should be separated by &; where there are more than two authors, 'et al.' should be added after the first name.

  The bibliography is included at the end of the contribution. Bibliographic details should be listed in the following order: surname, first name, year of publication, title, publisher. In the case of edited volumes, editors are indicated by (Ed.) or (Eds.). The bibliography should only list works that are referred to in the text.

  Examples of references can be found on the last page of this document.
- Abstracts
  The abstract should include the following information: the underlying question or problem, details of the research methodology (where applicable), and a summary of the key findings.
- Use of AI
  The use of artificial intelligence (AI) must be disclosed accordingly.
